

STRIKES CUT OFF DETROIT GASOLINE

YOUNG HENRY IS NAMED TOP
FORD CO. BOSSGRANDFATHER STEPS
DOWN IN BILLION DOLLAR FIRM

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Detroit, Sept. 21. (P)—Tall, broad-shouldered, 23-year-old Henry Ford II today was named president of the billion-dollar Ford Motor Co.

He took over the top post in the far-flung Ford empire simultaneously with announcement of the resignation of his illustrious grandfather, Henry Ford, who founded the family-owned enterprise in 1903.

Announcing his desire to again withdraw from the presidency, the elder Ford, who was 82 years old last July 30, told the company's board of directors:

"I feel free to take this step at this time because the critical period during which I again assumed office has passed. As you know, I have many personal interests to which I now desire to devote most of my time."

Majors in Sociology
The elder Ford turned the presidency over to his son, Edsel B. Ford, on December 31, 1918. He took over the helm again on June 1, 1943, a few days after Edsel Ford's death.

Unlike his father and his famed grandfather, young Henry Ford is of robust physique. He brings to his new post a tremendous capacity for work and an intense interest in economics and sociology. At Yale, where he completed his formal education, he majored in sociology after a year in engineering, which he frankly admitted he didn't like.

Asked once what was his main objective as executive vice president of the Ford company—a post he held for nearly two years—he replied quickly:

"To put the Ford company back into first place in production and sales." (The Ford company was second to Chevrolet throughout most of the decade immediately preceding the war.)

With this objective in mind, young Ford got away to a flying start last July 2 by showing the new 1946 model Ford car, less than two days after the date authorized by the war production board for resumption of civilian car production.

After turning out nearly 1,000 vehicles, however, Ford was forced to close down the assembly plants because of strikes among nearly a score of supplier firms. The shutdown sent 50,000 workers in Ford plants into idleness.

The youthful, blue-eyed president of the greatest family-owned industrial enterprise in the world, is engagingly informal. He writes with his left hand and rarely wears a hat.

Discharged in 1943
Born in Detroit on September 4, 1917, he was educated at Detroit University school, Hotchkiss school at Lakeview, Conn., and Yale. He was married on July 13, 1940, to Miss Anne McDonnell, at Southampton, L. I. They have two daughters.

At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the navy, and was discharged with a lieutenant's commission in 1943 following the death of his father. Still in the armed services are his brothers, Benson and William Ford. There is also a sister, Josephine.

Young Ford is interested in aviation, but he does not believe its development will cut into the automobile business. Learning to fly a plane he was tutored by his lifelong friend, Harry Bennett, long the elder Ford's chief lieutenant in company affairs. Bennett himself was taught by Charles A.

Willow Run Plant
Soon To Turn Out
Kaiser-Frazer Car

Detroit, Sept. 21. (P)—The huge Willow Run factory, which during the war produced more than 8,000 four-engined bombers, will soon turn out automobiles.

The recently organized Kaiser-Frazer Corp. today leased the mammoth government-owned plant for a five-year period from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

At the same time, the new firm announced it would finance the manufacture of its automobiles at Willow Run with capital and surplus totaling $20,000,000.

Two types of cars will be manufactured—the Frazer which will sell in the medium-priced category and the Kaiser in the low-priced field. Both will be full-sized, six-passenger automobiles.

CONGRESS MAY CALL IN DEWEY

Governor Of New York
Knew Of Pearl Harbor
Warning, Says Life

Washington, Sept. 21. (P)—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) hinted today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey might be invited to testify before a congressional committee assigned to investigate the Pearl Harbor disaster.

An article in Life magazine said the New York governor knew during the 1944 presidential campaign that the late President Roosevelt had been forewarned the Japanese would attack this country.

Republican Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr., said Dewey decided not to use the information during the campaign because General George C. Marshall advised him in a letter it would be a tip-off to the Japanese that their secret code had been broken. Brownell said Dewey was willing to accept political defeat rather than risk sacrificing any American lives.

Ferguson, a member of the Pearl Harbor committee, told a reporter he thought Dewey's testimony on the letter and its delivery would be pertinent to the inquiry.

"All original evidence ought to be produced before the committee," Ferguson asserted. "The original letter to the governor should be made part of the record. The committee will want to know also how it was delivered and when."

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) may assemble the committee tomorrow to decide when hearings should start.

SHIP PICTURES TO EUROPE

Lansing, Sept. 21. (P)—Col. Philip C. Pack, director of the state office of veterans, today reported that Michigan's motion picture of services awaiting veterans will be shipped to the European theater of operations to be shown to servicemen.

He said the film, developed by his office to acquaint the servicemen and the public with programs of aid for the servicemen upon his release, would not be shown in the Pacific theaters because of a shortage of shipping space.

The RFC said terms for leasing the factory, operated during the war by the Ford Motor Co., called for a payment of $50,000 for the first year, $850,000 for the second and $1,200,000 a year for the third, fourth and fifth years.

The lease, involving no option to buy, calls for rental of the main manufacturing and assembly buildings along with other structures. The airplane hangars and landing field were not included. The area to be occupied is 2,650,000 square feet.

The new auto corporation has Henry J. Kaiser, west coast industrialist, as board chairman. Joseph W. Frazer, affiliation with Graham-Paige.

Graham-Paige will move its manufacturing facilities to Willow Run to turn out the Frazer as well as tractors and farm implements. It will lease its plant near Detroit to the surplus property division of the RFC.

The two manufacturers announced an underwriting syndicate would underwrite a public offering of 1,700,000 shares of common stock at $10 a share.

In addition, Kaiser interests and Graham-Paige each have purchased 250,000 shares at the $10 price, thus investing $5,000,000. A registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission said the corporation has an authorized capitalization of 5,000,000 shares of common stock of $1 par value, of which 2,200,000 would be presently issued.

JEWESS POINTS OUT MURDERERS

Nazis On Trial For Mass
Killings And Torture
Are Identified

BY WILLIAM F. FRYE

Luebenberg, Germany, Sept. 21. (P)—A plump, black-haired Polish Jewess, her concentration camp number tattooed on her left forearm, today dramatically pointed out 15 of 45 Nazis on trial for mass murder, and declared some of them selected Jewish inmates of the Belzen and Oswiecim camps for death and prostitution.

Then the British military court sitting here, with the handcuffed Belzen ex-commandant Josef Kramer and the other defendants in tow, visited Belzen, 50 miles away. They found the faint stench of filth and corruption still hanging over it despite the best efforts of British occupation forces to clean it up.

The identification of 15 of the accused by Ada Bimko, 30-year-old woman physician who survived both Oswiecim and Belzen, was the climactic moment today of the trial, which began here Monday.

She had given the court her estimate that 4,000,000 Jewish perished in the Oswiecim murder factory.

First, she pointed out Kramer, called the "Beast of Belzen" for his record there. Then she moved down the line singling out others. Some she called by name, some by first or last name only, some she could not name though she recognized them.

THREAT FROM CIO STIRS UP
SENATOR'S IREELLIOTT ROOSEVELT
FINANCIAL QUIZ
DROPPED

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, Sept. 21. (P)—Congress eased up on work today—no senate or house sessions. But:

1. Tempers and salty cussing flared at a conference between Maryland congressmen and 300 Maryland CIO members. Senator Tydings (D-Md) stomped out.

2. The senate military committee shelved for the time being a proposal to limit the draft to men 21 to 26 years old.

3. The same committee approved, and sent to the senate floor for a vote:

A house-passed bill to encourage enlistments in the army and navy. It made only a minor change.

President Truman's appointments of Robert P. Patterson to be Secretary of War and W. Stuart Symington to be surplus property administrator.

A measure to award a special gold medal to Gen. George C. Marshall for his services as army chief of staff during the war.

4. A house committee voted against quizzing Elliott Roosevelt personally about his financial deals.

Tydings Stomps Out

The CIO came to town to urge action on the Truman legislative slate. Particularly on "full employment," more pay for the unemployed, a higher minimum wage.

Said Robert Lamb, CIO national legislative representative: "Any members of congress who don't get on the bandwagon and vote for a 65-cent minimum wage are going to be sorry in 1946."

Said Tydings: "I don't intend to sit here and be threatened by any damn person."

Out he marched. Boos and hisses from the CIO followed him.

All house and a third of the senate seats are at stake in next year's election. But Tydings' term doesn't expire until 1951.

The enlistment bill holds out to volunteers such bait as bonuses, earlier retirement, free mail. The idea is to get enough recruits so draft calls can be cut and discharges of veterans speeded.

Vote 10 to 11

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) dropped a plan to tack onto the measure a ban on drafting any men except those 21 to 26. He said that proposal would stir up a lot of argument and impede speedy passage of the new recruiting system.

Republicans moved in the house ways and means committee to question Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) said 10 of them voted for it, 11 Democrats against.

The committee has been studying Elliott's affairs because they involve a $196,000 income tax deduction. That allowance was claimed by President John Hartford of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company on grounds he lost that part of a $200,000 loan to Elliott to help finance a Texas radio network.

Then the British military court sitting here, with the handcuffed Belzen ex-commandant Josef Kramer and the other defendants in tow, visited Belzen, 50 miles away. They found the faint stench of filth and corruption still hanging over it despite the best efforts of British occupation forces to clean it up.

The committee hasn't made up its mind finally what to do about the case.

Senate Republicans were busy in a policy-shaping steering committee meeting.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said they would get together with house Republicans on a joint declaration of party purposes.

• Social note: Senate Republicans and their wives will attend a buffet supper Thursday.

German Prisoners
In Midwest Going
Home After Harvest

Chicago, Sept. 21. (P)—Plans for sending home 23,242 German prisoners of war from the midwest as soon as the fall harvest is in were announced today by the Army's Sixth Service Command.

The prisoners now are working in Michigan, Illinois, Northern Indiana and Wisconsin.

Maj. Gen. David McCoach, commanding general of the command, said prisoner of war contracting officers were advising contractors that no agreements for war prisoners' work would be signed before Oct. 31.

He said beginning Nov. 1 the only war prisoners left in the area would be those in Upper Michigan woods, sugar beet camps and at army posts.

Nippon Military
Clique Rapidly
Losing Prestige

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—General MacArthur today ordered the summary arrest of Lt. Gen. Kenji Doihara, a marauder in Manchuria who only recently assumed the most important military field command left in Japan.

Doihara was long a member of the Kwangtung army crowd that pushed the subjugation of Manchuria. The order for his arrest came as Japanese sources declared the militarists who led their nation into a disastrous war had hit the bottom of their prestige.

Well-informed Japanese said the hand of the military now was so palsied it lacked the strength to trouble Emperor Hirohito, whose leadership in the surrender was pictured as raising his authority to the highest peak in modern times.

MacArthur tightened his grip over the Japanese with a censorship code which told the press to print the truth. It was extended to headlines, recently used by the Japanese for propaganda.

Edwin W. Pauley, American member of the Allied reparations commission who is expected here within a month, asserted in San Francisco that Japan's war-making potential would be eliminated and that the beaten nation would pay indemnities in goods, not cash.

(Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas, Tex., Morning News, said in a signed article MacArthur had told him he would "fix things" so that "the Japs would have a hard enough time eating for the next 25 years, much less having the leisure and materials to build up for another war.")

(Dealey, who saw the surrender signed, said MacArthur told a group of American publishers that occupation could end in six months "if we are not too ruthless and cruel" but might last "indefinitely if we do not handle them right.")

TIMBER CUTTING
'SCANDAL' AIREDIron Mountain Hearing
Takes Up Proposed
State Control

Iron Mountain, Mich., Sept. 21. (P)—A hearing on proposed timber cutting legislation which has been marked by charges of "scandalous affairs" in Michigan's northern peninsula entered a final session today.

The proposed legislation would affect the cutting of timber on privately-owned property. A panel of five state senators and 11 representatives has been conducting the hearing.

A charge that "scandalous affairs" had been permitted in the last five years in the sale of state-owned land was voiced by Gordon R. Connor of Wakefield, representing the Connor Lumber Company.

"I will challenge the state department," Connor said, "to show me where they sold timberlands in the Upper Peninsula and got more than 25 per cent of the value."

A proposed bill would give the State Conservation Department the right to control cutting on privately-owned lands of five or more acres.

The Rev. Karl Hammar of Escanaba, who said he spoke for no one "unless it be sportsmen," said "we need the protection which can come with legislation so that in the years to come the Upper Peninsula won't consist primarily of a series of ghost towns."

Marooned Soldiers
Are Rescued From Greenland Station

Narsarsauk, Greenland, Sept. 21. (P)—Battering their way through thick ice packs off Greenland's east coast, two vessels rescued 11 U. S. soldiers marooned at a lonely radio-weather station at Skjoldungen since last Jan. 8, it was announced today.

Col. Eugene R. Rice, commanding officer of the Greenland base command, eastern defense command, said the men, whose supplies were buried in a snowslide in January, were well and in good spirits.

LICENSE REVENUE UP

Lansing, Sept. 21. (P)—A total of $640,330 was collected from license sales during the first eight months of 1945, a 5.2 per cent gain in revenue over the same period last year when sales totaled $608,148, the state conservation department reported today.

SENATE HOLDS UP ACTION ON
DRAFT STATUS'RED APPLE' BILL
HAS INDUCEMENTS
FOR ENLISTEES

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, Sept. 21. (P)—Revision of the draft law went on the shelf in the Senate military committee today to wait while measures aimed to induce army-navy enlistments get a trial.

The committee put aside a bill by its chairman, Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) embracing changes in the selective service law, and voted to report instead the House-approved "red apple" bill.

The House measure was so dubbed because members said it held out a red apple, in the form of allowances and benefits, to enlistees.

Its major provisions:

1.—Mustering out pay for men now in the army who enlist.

2.—Five cents a mile travel allowance for those granted furloughs on reenlistment.

3.—An optional monetary allowance in lieu of quarters for dependents.

4.—All benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights for those who enlist before next May 15 when the selective service law expires.

5.—Optional retirement on part pay after 20 years service instead of the present 30 years.

Chance For Teen-agers
The Senate committee made only one change. It increased to 18 months an optional one-year enlistment period approved by the House for men who have served six months or more in the army.

Thomas said the War Department had suggested this alteration. Senator Revercomb (R-W. Va.) served notice he will try on the Senate floor to cut it back to one year.

Thomas' bill included virtually all provisions of the House measure. In addition it would set a two-year limit on service by future draftees and forbid drafting men over 26.

Before the committee meeting, he told reporters he would try to limit the draft to the 21-26 age groups.

"I think these 'teen-age boys ought to have a chance to get an education," he said.

But after the committee session, Thomas indicated that he had accepted a majority view there that "we ought to meet one problem at a time."

Blaze At Packard
Found Accidental;
Foreman Is Killed

Detroit, Sept. 21. (P)—Police of the arson squad said tonight they were reasonably satisfied the $350,000 Packard Motor Car Co. fire Thursday was accidental and criminal negligence was not involved.

They said an investigation started today was not closed, however. Related investigations also were started by the prosecutor's office and police homicide squad.

The three-alarm blaze caused the death of one man, injured another and damaged equipment used during the war to manufacture Rolls Royce aircraft engines. The fatality was Wess B. Martin, a rigger foreman who was trapped in a fifth floor rest room.

Workers in the plant said a janitor unintentionally spread the flames with a broom he used in fighting the fire. They also reported that sparks from a torch used to cut bolts from a gear-grinding machine ignited oil-soaked sawdust on the floor.

Navy May Adopt
New Uniforms, But
It'll Be Some Time

Washington, Sept. 21. (P)—It'll be "some time" before the navy knocks the bell out of the bottom of its trousers.

Right now, the navy said tonight, its tailors are busy dreaming up what the well-dressed sailor or should wear.

A navy spokesman told a reporter that before any action can be taken samples must be sent:

1. To the fleet commanders.

2. To the public.

After hearing their reactions, the navy bigwigs will vote on the sailor suit of the future.

And when will that be? "It will be some time," said the spokesman.

ALERTED AT LAST

Paris, Sept. 21. (P)—Three divisions of the Sixteenth Army Corps—the 66th, 75th and 89th—which have helped process and ship home more than a million troops, have been alerted that their turn has finally come.

BIG TRANSPORT

Weekly Flights Around
World Planned; First
Takeoff Sept. 28

Washington, Sept. 21. (P)—The first regular globe-circling air service, giving the world a preview of what will be commonplace in time, was announced today by the U. S. Army air transport command.

The first C-54 (Douglas Sky-master)—a 40-passenger, four-motored transport—will leave Washington National Airport at 5 p. m., EWT, Friday, Sept. 28 on the schedule to be known as "the globester."

Additional passengers will be picked up at New York City's La Guardia Field at 6:30 p. m. A.T.C. officials and three reporters who will make the entire maiden trip as observers will return here 151 hours after the Washington take-off, at midnight Thursday, Oct. 4. They will have covered 23,147 miles.

Thereafter, flights will start on "the globester" every Friday afternoon.

Airplane Collision
Starts Miami Fire;
Two Crewmen Die

Miami, Fla., Sept. 21. (P)—A navy plane apparently in serious trouble and being shepherded toward safety by three other navy aircraft, tangled wings with a guiding aircraft over midtown Miami tonight, killing at least two crewmen and causing a two-alarm fire in the business district.

Losing altitude and apparently unable to locate an airport, the plane crossed Biscayne Bay and passed over the downtown section of Miami.

One plane plunged through the roof of a hardware company's warehouse, setting it and the adjoining Tuttle hotel garage ablaze. The garage was used by the coast guard.

The other craft crashed in the street, splintered across a parking lot and struck the wall of the hardware warehouse where it burned furiously.

Publisher Assails
Capital Critics Of MacArthur Policies

Detroit, Sept. 21. (P)—John S. Knight, editor and publisher of The Detroit Free Press, today assailed the state department's censure of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's estimate that only 200,000 troops would be needed to police Japan.

Knight, who recently returned from a five-week tour of the Pacific war theater, told the Adcraft club that "MacArthur is a better judge than Washington diplomats as to how many troops are needed to control Japan."

The publisher said "he knows the Orient and the Oriental mind and a good many will agree with him that it is nonsensical to hold hundreds of thousands of troops on duty there."

"The general is fully aware of military needs to hold the airports, harbors and metropolitan areas."

HEYNS HAS BIRTHDAY

LABOR TIEUP
CRITICAL FOR
AUTO CAPITALSERVICE CURTAILED
BY BUSES; POLICE
BORROW FUEL

Detroit, Sept. 21. (P)—The labor troubles of the nation's automotive capital approached a critical stage today as strikes shut off the city's supply of gasoline and closed down two more automotive plants.

The spreading strike of CIO oil workers left the city with sufficient stocks of gasoline to last only until Monday noon, a Dealers association said, and approximately 1,400 of the city's 3,400 gasoline filling stations reported their tanks were empty. Their number was increasing hourly.

More Plants Close
Meanwhile Chrysler corporation's Dodge Truck plant and the factory of the Zenith Carburetor division of Bendix Aviation corporation were closed.

Chrysler, which sent 2,200 Dodge truck employees home yesterday because of strikes in supplier plants, charged that 40 to 50 pickets representing Local 140, United Automobile Workers (CIO) today prevented 800 employees from entering the truck plant and forced its closing.

Chrysler asserted it had received no notice of grievance from the union. There was no statement from Local 140.

At the Zenith Carburetor plant the management reported a strike of 40 foremen and sent 1,600 production workers home. A spokesman for the Zenith foremen described the strike as due to "dissatisfaction with working arrangements." The company made no comment.

The additional strikes and layoffs brought to an estimated 86,000 the number of workers idled in the Detroit area. Included were approximately 13,000 employed in plants in Windsor, Ont., across the Detroit river.

Taxicabs May Give Up
Effects of the Oil Workers strike first were felt in the Detroit area a week ago with stoppage of deliveries from the Socony-Vacuum Oil company's plant in nearby Trenton. About 750 workers struck, demanding a 30 per cent wage increase. A company statement said the strikers refused an offer of 15 per cent increases.

Today an additional 750 oil workers in the area quit, completely shutting off deliveries. Although spokesmen for the oil strikers previously had said city services would be kept supplied, the closing of additional refineries, bulk terminals and pipelines complicated the situation. The city-owned transportation system, reporting only a six-day supply of gasoline on hand, curtailed some services. Some police cars were operating on gasoline "borrowed" from the city.

HAMMAR TALKS AT MEETING

Testifies At Hearing On Timber Conservation Legislation

Iron Mountain—"Scandalous affairs have been going on for the last five years in the sale in the Upper Peninsula of state-owned lands," Gordon R. Connor, Wakefield, representing the Connor Lumber company, charged at the opening of the hearing on proposed legislation to control cutting on privately-owned lands, before state legislators at the court house. The session is called to hear arguments for and against control of cutting.

"I will challenge the state department," Connor continued, "to show me where they sold timber lands in the U. P. and got more than 25 per cent of the value."

He made this statement as conservation department officials were explaining, at the request of Walter Bagley, land owner from Wilson, the manner in which state-owned lands are sold.

The Rev. Karl J. Hammar, Escanaba, who said he represented no one "unless it be the sportsmen of the U. P.," said that "the very fact that a statement was made to the effect that the lands are being stripped of their timber means we need legislation. I own some land," he continued, "not very much, but certainly if I wanted to take some timber from it, I wouldn't be adverse to having some one regulate me in the same manner as they would on state-owned land next to me. I believe in selective forestry and I feel that, as a sportsman and conservationist, I must support any measure that will build up the resources of the state of Michigan. We need the protection which can come with legislation so that in the years to come the U. P. won't consist primarily of a series of ghost towns. I don't know just what needs to be done, but I am for regulation."

Higgins "Alarmed"

As the Rev. Mr. Hammar started back to his seat, Senator Higgins said "Mr. Hammar, I was alarmed by what Mr. Connor said. It reflects on every legislator here today. Can you recommend in any way the manner in which the conservation department should handle the sale of land in the U. P.?"

"No, I cannot," Hammar replied.

ed. "I attended such a sale last year and bid on a parcel which I wanted. I was outbid. Then I bid again and for a second time was outbid. The highest bidder got the land—it all seemed perfectly fair to me. I think the conservation men are doing a good job. They may need new regulations, but no one should make blanket charges against them."

"I Can Prove It"

Connor was on his feet again at this point. "I object to that statement," he said. "I didn't make blanket charges. I made a statement and I can prove that lands were sold at 10 to 15 per cent of value in sales held in the U. P."

"Were they at public auction or by private sale?" chairman Goulette asked.

"Both," Connor replied. "When lands failed to sell at public auction some person interested would have a game warden, who knows nothing about it, appraise the lands and he then would buy at their figure."

SAYS FORESTS BEING WASTED

Holderman Claims State Is 50 Years Behind In Legislation

Iron Mountain—H. L. Holderman, Escanaba went 'way back to his experience in World War I in his talk before Michigan state legislators at the court house, to support his point that Michigan is already 50 years behind in legislation for the preservation and perpetuation of forest lands.

Holderman told of how, in the early 1800, France faced economic ruin because its forest lands had been wantonly devastated. "It was one of the principal causes of the French revolution," he said. "Later, however, France adopted a strict policy and practice of forest conservation, the results of which we saw, quite clearly, back in 1918, when, as an engineer battalion, we were sent out to find and cut wood for war construction."

The speaker described the French system of forest regulation in which all lands—public and privately-owned—are under strict government control. "Every tree, whether on private or public land, must be marked by a government forester before it can be cut, and we found everything we needed—heavy timbers from trees, some of them more than 100 years old, which had been protected through the years."

No Forest Legislation

Emphasizing that he favored legislation to protect the forest industry, Holderman went on: "As it is now, you have no legislation to preserve and perpetuate your forests, except as drawn by the conservation department for fire prevention, and to prove title. As far as protecting and preserving

Cpl. Boyd Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson, 317 So. 17th street, is now stationed at Atsugi airfield, 15 miles from Tokyo, in Japan, he has informed his parents in a letter received here yesterday.

Cpl. Peterson, a member of the 11th Airborne Division, received his paratrooper training in Manila. He was graduated from the Escanaba high school in 1944.

A brother, Ensign H. Stuart Peterson, is serving aboard the U. S. S. Latimer and is now in Asiatic waters. The ship was in San Francisco in August, but Ensign Peterson did not get an opportunity to come home at that time.

Richard M. Craig, radioman, 37c, U. S. Navy, son of Mrs. Winifred Craig, 1212 Sixth avenue south, met Lt. John Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cleary, Escanaba, on Saipan recently, he informed his mother. Later he met Carlton Olson, son of Mrs. Chris Olson, Escanaba, at Guam. Craig reported that he had enjoyable visits with both of the Escanaba boys, the first Escanabans he had met in two years in the Navy.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Lillian Dufour, of Munising, First Lt. Richard E. Dufour, a radar operator on a B-29, reported: "We flew in formation over Tokyo while the peace was being signed. Could see the U. S. fleet moored in Tokyo Bay. It was a welcome sight, I assure you.

"It's a pretty country, just like the kind of hills and trees you see home, but a surprising lack of roads. A lot of damage, too. When formation broke up, we went down low and the little kids would look up and wave. The rest just sullenly ignored us."

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson of Rock that their son S/Sgt. Lester (Bud) Carlson, is enroute home from Europe on the Queen Elizabeth, which is due in New York soon. He has been in service for 46 months, and overseas for the past 37 months.

C-S. Kenneth Kositzke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kositzke, 943 Stephenson avenue, has arrived home to spend a 30-day furlough after serving 23 months in the European theater of war. He was with the 36th engineers in Germany and France.

GIVES $10,000 FOR RECREATION

Dr. Sawbridge Provides For Living Memorial
In Stephenson

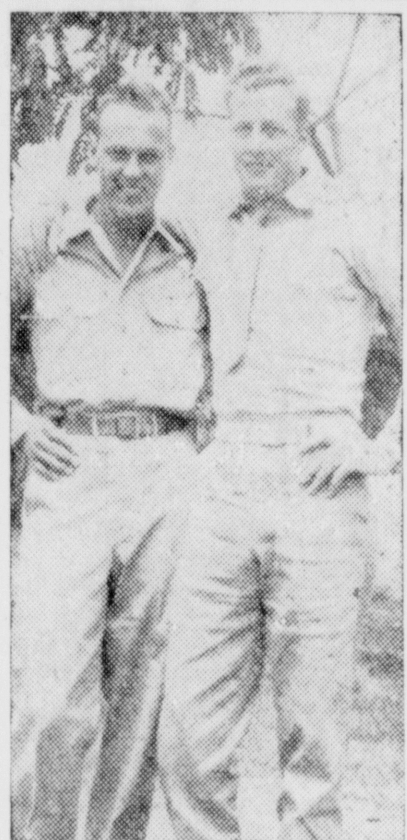

The Stephenson township board of education has accepted a donation of $10,000 from Dr. Edward Sawbridge for the development of the recreational facilities within the community for the residents of central Menominee county.

The money will be placed in a war memorial fund and held in trust by the board of education. Actual construction or improvement of the recreational facilities will not begin until such time as planned projects can advantageously be carried out.

Dr. Sawbridge has for many years been interested in the promotion of projects in communities which were concerned about living memorials.

In his 84th year, Dr. Sawbridge has been a resident of Stephenson for 62 years and still goes to his office in the rear of the pharmacy he operates there. Born in Marquette on October 3, 1861, he attended Rippon (Wis.) and Hillsdale (Mich.) colleges and won his degree in medicine at the Rush Medical School in Chicago at the age of 22 years.

Dr. Sawbridge is president of the Bank of Stephenson, organized and managed the Stephenson telephone exchange for more than 40 years. He is a member of the Menominee Rotary Club and the father of Mrs. John E. Henes of Menominee.

Police reported that the Hansen & Jensen Fish Market was entered Thursday night or yesterday morning and $45 was taken from a desk drawer and the cash register. Entrance was made by breaking the glass in the front door. A window glass also was broken.

A railroad car on the west side of the National Biscuit company building also was entered Thursday night, and some boxed cereal was disturbed. It appeared that nothing had been taken, police reported.

TEAL TO BUILD AT BARK RIVER

$6,000 Evergreen Storage
And Baling Plant To Be Started Soon

Ray Teal of Bark River, who has conducted a business in storing and shipping evergreens there for the past ten years, is planning to start construction of a $6,000 warehouse about Oct. 1, he announced yesterday. The building will be the new home for Teal's Evergreens, which has a branch at Longview, Wash., and eleven buying stations in the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin.

The buildings will be located on Highway US 2-41 about 300 feet past the Bark River Bridge and Culvert company building. It will be about 100 feet long and 65 feet wide, of concrete block construction. An elevator for handling bales of evergreens is included in plans for the structure.

Teal said that cedar, hemlock, balsam and pine boughs are purchased and shipped by truck and rail to the city markets, where they are used for decorative purposes, and in the manufacture of artificial wreaths and other floral pieces. Princess pine also is purchased and, when dyed, is made into artificial wreaths.

The evergreens also are in demand as decorative material for shop and window displays, especially during the holiday season. From the West Coast fern leaves and huckleberry foliage is shipped, and Teal said that about three million fern leaves are also purchased annually in the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin. Teal has been in the evergreens business for 13 years, but located at Bark River ten years ago.

In the coming three months about 2,000 bales of evergreens per week will be trucked or shipped from Bark River, Teal said. In other seasons, shipments range from 1,000 to 1,500 bales per week.

Speeding Demobilization

The plan for speedier demobilization of the army, revealed Thursday by General Marshall, should answer the public criticism of the army's delay in moving large groups of men back to civilian status. If the program is put into efficient operation, the new plan should mean the prompt release of many thousands of soldiers entitled to discharge under the lowered requirements.
The program makes eligible for release after Oct. 1 soldiers with 70 points or more. The following month, Nov. 1, the point requirements will be lowered to 60 and during the winter two years service will be all that is required for discharge.
To accomplish this objective, the army will have to materially speed up its discharge facilities. That has been one of the objections of the program thus far. Many soldiers eligible for discharge under the 80 point minimum requirements are still loitering around army camps because the army officials are moving too slowly in getting all eligible servicemen back to civilian status.
Particularly encouraging was General Marshall's assurance that the rate of discharge has no bearing at this time on the eventual size of the army. This is important because the size of the peacetime army has not yet been fully determined. To impede the discharge rate until a determination of the eventual size of the army is made would be a mistake.
Gen. Marshall's explanation for the failure to discharge large numbers of high point soldiers in the Pacific is both reasonable and understandable. He explained that an invasion of Kyushu Island was projected for Nov. 1 and that the operation could not go forward without key non-commissioned soldiers with battle experience.
Now that the war is over, however, there should be no delay in promptly discharging all soldiers who qualify under the new point standards.

Lake States Organize

PLANS for the concerted promotion of the tourist business to northern lake states in the coming year are being discussed this week in Duluth.
Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the province of Ontario have banded themselves together in the Northern Great Lakes Area Council, which will function along the lines of the New England Council to attract vacationists to this vast region. They will contribute to a sizable fund to be used in extensive advertising in newspapers, magazines and radio and conduct other promotional work.
The lake states region has much to offer the vacationist. There's hunting, fishing, scenery and many other outstanding attractions, unexcelled in New England, Florida or any other part of the country. The important thing is to let the outside world know what we have here, and the formation of the Northern Great Lakes Area Council should be able to accomplish just that.

A Tug of War

THE Allied determination to enforce the terms of the Potsdam conference in Japan is not being served by the tug of war between the American state department and Gen. MacArthur over the projected peace program in Japan.
While it is probably true that some controls must be retained in Washington on General MacArthur's plan of action in Japan, a public feud between state department officials and Gen. MacArthur's staff does not contribute anything toward the solution of the problems in Japan. Rather, it only serves to create suspicion both at home and abroad that the American plan of action is confused and lacks coordination.
On the whole, MacArthur's plans for the control of Japan are reasonable and sensible. They follow the outline of the Potsdam declaration rigidly.
In the relatively short period since the unconditional surrender of Japan, much has been accomplished toward the demobilization of the Japanese war machine. MacArthur is now firmly in control of affairs within Japan and the process of reorganizing Japan along peaceful lines has developed much more smoothly than anyone had thought possible.
This is no time to upset the efficiency of MacArthur's authority in Japan by directing attacks at him from official sources in Washington.

Driver Education

WITH the lifting of gasoline restrictions, the use of the family automobile by the youngsters will be increasing. We may also expect a teen-age rush to used cars for jalopies discarded by the motoring public when new automobiles become available.
In anticipation of this situation, state and local school officials are accelerating programs in high school driver education. Termed "behind the wheel" programs, those in operation or planned for the near future are designed to teach high school students to drive safely on the public highways. During the summer, teachers from Escanaba and other Upper Peninsula communities attended a drivers' training school held in Marquette under the sponsorship of the Michigan State Police.

Some 5,000 high schools throughout the country now have behind-the-wheel programs. In each of these states, at least 200 high schools offer drive education courses. It is to be hoped that the educational program will be extended through out the country for safety's sake. Anything can happen when you get a bunch of lively, teen-agers behind the wheels of ancient jalopies, without the benefit of good brakes and other safety equipment.

A Big Job Well Done

WHEN automobiles, tires and gasoline get back into postwar normal use, there will be a diminution in the demand for railroad accommodations, no doubt. Personal transportation will come back. But the public ought to learn from this whole situation the lesson that, after all, ride about as much as we please on rubber, we are dependent on the railroads, the backbone of the nation's transport.
In spite of many real and artificial problems with which it had to contend, there was no breakdown in the nation's rail system during the war crisis. Railroad management and labor, in cooperation with agencies of government, successfully performed and are performing a stupendous job.
The railroads, while trying to keep the public fully informed on their activities as a matter of information, are not looking for someone to blame for any of the difficulties they have had to meet and overcome. The railroads have got too much to do to be holding post-mortems, and they are doing it. And that's why the United States never really had a wartime transportation problem.

A BLOW TO ALL OF US
(Houghton Mining Gazette)

Suspension of operations at the mine, mill and smelter of the Copper Range company this week, due to an adverse CIO vote on the question of continuing under a revised contract, is disturbing news and will be regretted throughout the South Range towns and the Portage district. Indeed, it is a blow to all of us, for not only will it directly affect the approximately 700 Copper Range employees and their families, but many hundreds of others indirectly. The enforced suspension will be felt by the storekeepers, the shops, the farmers, business men generally, and by those in professional life.

Copper Range has a record of forty-five years of continuous operation and it is regrettable, particularly at this time of reconversion of industry to a peace basis, that work must cease, even temporarily. Its activity has meant much to the welfare, comfort and happiness of people over a considerable area, and there are many families who may feel the pinch of hardship as a result of the vote just taken. In this connection, it is important to note that of the 680 members of the union, 199 did not vote, and of those who did vote the margin of difference was only nine.

The Gazette does not presume to take any sides in the controversy; it is intent only in pointing out the seriousness of the situation. It would appear, however, that the differences are not great and that the issue could be settled with equity to all directly concerned. It is to be hoped that a compromise of some kind will be reached before the advent of cold weather. There is coal enough on hand at Copper Range to keep the schools in session throughout the winter, but if operations at the mine, mill and smelter are to be resumed, more fuel will be needed. Speedy action will be necessary to permit the shipment of additional supplies.

Last, but by no means least, are those who voted to discontinue operations keeping faith with those servicemen who left the Range and their jobs in the keeping of those who remained behind, assured they would have their old jobs back after honorably serving their country?

In voting not to work under prevailing conditions who rightfully should be accorded the privilege of making this most important decision for themselves.

Anybody can close a mine, that is no accomplishment. But to keep a mine, mill and smelter going, it takes good management and faithful labor, working hand in hand, each willing to cooperate for mutual benefit.

SEAPOWERS REMAINS
(Baltimore Sun)

One aspect of the surrender ceremony on the deck of the U.S.S. Missouri, anchored in Tokyo Bay, will not be ignored by historians. We shall be lucky if it is not ignored, also, by those who will safeguard the future of this country. The thing we must not forget is that it was seapower which made it possible for us to win the war.

Now some are telling us that the atomic bomb, carried to its objective in a robot, rocket-propelled plane, has made obsolete not only armies but fleets. If this is true, it has not yet been demonstrated. The fleet captured the bases from which the planes which carried the atomic bombs were launched. The fleet carried the bomb itself and the men who assembled it and launched it. Perhaps, in a generation or two, a way may be found to guide future atomic bombs to their objectives over vast stretches of the ocean. But it seems reasonably certain that such a development is a long way off.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The Missouri is a wild and rampaging river that flows through some of the wildest and most wonderful country in this great land of ours. Often, all too often, the Missouri makes the headlines with stories of flooded towns, homeless citizens, crops ruined.

Childs

Here in Washington, a group of men sitting around a table are talking about how to tame the Missouri, how to educate it and make it work for man twelve months out of the year. A subcommittee of the Senate committee on irrigation and reclamation is holding hearings on Senator Murray's bill to create a Missouri valley authority patterned after the Tennessee valley authority.

This hearing is a repeat performance. Earlier this year, another senate subcommittee heard almost the same witnesses make almost the same arguments.

—PRIVATE POWER OPPOSED

Even more curious is the fact that the chairman of the committee this time was also chairman at the previous hearing. Senator Overton of Louisiana, who is opposed to an MVA, is presiding as on the former occasion, when a commerce subcommittee turned in an adverse report.

Behind the struggle for an MVA are many forces. The private power interests are, naturally, opposed. They do not want to see public ownership extended through another TVA.

The most active force in favor of an MVA in the valley is the National Farmers Union, which is strongest in the States that lie within the Missouri's watershed. The Farmers Union, sparked by its aggressive young president, James G. Patton, has crusaded for an autonomous authority situated in the valley, with power to reshape that vast region.

But inside government, too, there is a conflict. The old-line bureaus that have doctored the rampaging Missouri for so long feel they have a prior claim. An independent authority like the TVA might remove them altogether.

The army engineers and the U. S. reclamation bureau in the department of interior got together on their own plan for the Missouri valley. Harry W. Bashore, reclamation commissioner, said in an interview in a Denver newspaper that if present federal agencies could be "coordinated" they could bring the valley all the benefits that would come from an authority.

When Secretary of the Interior Ickes testified at the previous hearing, he said he was in favor "in principle" of the MVA bill. But he believed the valley authorities should report to his department to be coordinated.

The net effect of his testimony, however, was to please the opponents of the bill, as he finished, Senator O'Daniel of Texas thanked him profusely, saying:

"You certainly have been very helpful to us, Mr. Secretary. We are very glad you came because you served to bring this thing into the clear."

—CALLED HIM A LIAR—

When I wrote about the TVA and Ickes' attitude toward authorities, some time later, the secretary of the interior responded in his inimitable way by calling me every kind of a liar. If, however, you are for something "in principle," but help in practice to bring about its defeat, then your advocacy would seem to be of a curious and dangerous kind.

The claims of conflicting government agencies should have nothing to do with the Missouri valley is developed. The test should be the greatest good for the greatest number of people living in the valley.

The department of interior has come forward with a new bill providing for the creation of authorities in major river valleys. These authorities would be situated in the region and would report "through" the department of interior to the White House. This may be the answer.

We're learning, if slowly, about the power of our natural resources. Life magazine had a superb spread the other day on the Missouri valley. But the wild Missouri river, carrying away in flood the fertility of the earth, will not wait indefinitely on the maneuverings of politicians in Washington.

pontifical pronunciation which some broadcasters use.

The pronunciation "ULL-ti-MAH-tum" (or "OOL-tee-MAH-tay," as one commentator grandly intoned) does have a Latin sound, but you'll not find it in any reputable American dictionary.

True, ultimatum did come from the Latin, but so did countless other words such as janitor, major, minor, ultimate, minus, editor, none of which are ever Romanized in pronunciation.

For example, the word ultimate, from which ultimatum derives, is never heard as "OOL-tee-MAH-tay," nor is janitor Latinized as "yah-ni-to-re."

Such Latin words have been a part of the English language for centuries, and they are pronounced according to English rules—or, perhaps I should say that they should be so pronounced.

Any recognized American dictionary will show that the correct pronunciation of ultimatum is: ULL-ti-MAY-tum.

Another word from the news that is frequently mispronounced is "aggrandizement." It means "the act of exalting or enlarging," as, Japan's aggrandizement of Hirohito as being of divine origin.

Do not accent aggrandizement on the third or "dize" syllable. Only the second syllable is stressed. Say: uh-GRAN-dizz-ment.

Likewise, the "tise-" of chastisement should receive no stress, and it should not rhyme with "rise." Better say: CHASS-tizz-ment.

A New Jersey man asked a policeman to shoot him. Perhaps he believed what his wife said about him.

VICTORY SPREE—When Escanaba staged its enthusiastic celebration on V-J Day August 14 it did more than chase up and down Lexington street, reports Hugo Lillquist, superintendent of the city electric utility. It also used more electricity in one 24-hour period than at any time in the city's history.

Dunathan

The records at the city electric distribution station show that 38,000 kilowatt hours of electricity were consumed in the 24-hour period on which V-J Day occurred. The previous highest consumption of electricity for any one day was, at Christmastime, 1940, when a total of 37,000 kilowatt hours of current was used. During peacetime the annual Yuletide season was the peak period for electric consumption, for many persons not only lighted their homes more brilliantly, they often had outdoor displays.

Average daily electric load in Escanaba is about 26,500 kilowatt hours, Hugo reports. This makes the V-J Day peak just 11,500 kwh more than the average.

While it seemed that thousands of persons came downtown in Escanaba to celebrate the announcement of the war's ending, they must have left the lights and radio on at home. Additional thousands had their radios going steadily for hours, while "victory parties" flourished throughout the night.

THE BIG BOOM—

Hundreds of Escanaba duck hunters were on hand for the opening of the duck season Thursday morning, crouching in blinds or just taking their chances in the open along the shore near Portage Point. The opening boom of the signal to start shooting, followed by the blasts from the shot guns, made the bay shore as uncomfortable a place for ducks as a Jap plane off Okinawa.

Some of the duck hunters in blinds farthest from shore came home looking a little deformed. They had crouched down so long, and had pulled in their necks for so many hours to avoid being seen or shot, they had the general contour of turtles. Some of them reported the shot aimed at ducks fell from the air like hailstones.

DATED HISTORY—

There is a growing disrespect for historical dates, yet often history can be most forcibly absorbed by establishing historic events by the dates on which they occurred. Following is a "date calendar" for World War II:

Sept. 1, 1939—Hitler sends his forces smashing into Poland.

Sept. 3, 1939—Britain and France declare war on Germany.

June 10, 1940—Italy enters war against Britain and France.

June 22, 1940—France signs armistice with Germany.

June 22, 1941—Germans invade Russia.

Dec. 7, 1941—Japanese attack Pearl Harbor.

Dec. 11, 1941—Germany and Italy declare war on the United States.

Sept. 8, 1944—Italy surrenders unconditionally.

May 7, 1945—Germany surrenders unconditionally.

Aug. 8, 1945—Russia enters war against Japan.

Aug. 10, 1945—Japanese announce willingness to accept unconditional surrender terms — if Hirohito is permitted to remain in power.

Aug. 14, 1945—Allies agree to accept Japanese surrender.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Munising—F. A. Silcox, chief of the United States Forest Service, expressed himself much progress with the forestry progress in the national forests of the Upper Peninsula after completing a tour with E. W. Tinker, regional forester of Milwaukee.

Detroit—The Detroit Tigers, behind brilliant pitching by two of their mound aces, mathematically riveted a second consecutive American league pennant to their home flagpole Saturday by sweeping a double header with the St. Louis Browns, 6-2 and 2-0.

Kansas City—Elaine Barrie, pretty 20-year-old admirer of John Barrymore, abandoned to-night her dash from New York in an effort to overtake the west-bound 53-year-old screen lover who eluded her here.

Dr. John J. Walsh, Dr. G. W. Moll, Dr. A. H. Miller and possibly others of the medical profession will attend the meeting of the Michigan Medical Society which will open Monday at Sault Ste. Marie.

Gladstone—One of the busiest places in this city these days is the mill of the Cloverland Milling & Supply company. The mill was erected here in 1890 and has run every year since.

20 Years Ago—1925

Lansing—The Escanaba Power & Traction company was authorized to increase street railway fares in Escanaba in an order issued by the public utilities commission. Effective Oct. 1 the company may charge a cash fare of 10 cents or sell tickets, four for 25 cents.

Flint—The list of appointments for the Marquette district was made at the Detroit conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here. Rev. R. C. G. Williams was again assigned to Escanaba, and Rev. Harry Colenso to Gladstone. San Antonio, Tex.—Col. William Mitchell, center of a storm of criticism of the army and navy air services, has been relieved of further duty as Eighth Air Corps officer by order of Maj. Gen. Ernest Hinds, area commander.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson of Harris will offer some home grown wool for sale on the municipal produce market Saturday, Joseph Greenfield, city market master, announces.

Sept. 1, 1945—Japanese surrender signed formally—just six years to the day from the date the war started when Hitler sent his armies into Poland.

INGENUITY—Earl Paquin of Carroll's Corners in Escanaba township is an ingenious man, and his ingenuity has helped bring many a county farmer over the wartime equipment shortage period. Earl has a shop at Carroll's Corners where he repairs everything from cars to manure spreaders.

In fact he has, with parts from other pieces of farm machinery, built manure spreaders and other pieces of equipment badly needed by the farmer the last few years. The farmers say that Earl can make an old tractor hum like new, and some of them report that if it had not been for him they would have been without the use of some of their machinery altogether.

CANADIANS AND MEAT—It is reported from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, that meat dealers there have sided with other Canadian meat dealers to declare "that unless meat rationing be completely abolished by Sept. 24" they will sell meat without coupons on the following day.

Canada's participation in the recent war effort has been criticized even within Canada. From this distance it is impossible to determine the justification for meat

Q&A Service

By WS Bureau

What do you want to know? We will answer questions on any subject not involving extended research. Legal or medical advice cannot be given. Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, a n d (IMPORTANT) MAIL THE LETTER and a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SERVICE BUREAU, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington 5, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone: write as directed.

Q Under what circumstances is the blue discharge given in the Army?

A An honorable discharge is given when a soldier's service has been honorable. A dishonorable discharge is given in compliance with a general court-martial sentence because of a military offense of a serious nature. A discharge "other than honorable" (blue) is given for the in-between cases.

Q What is the difference in pension and compensation in regards to veterans' benefits?

A Until recently the term "compensation" was used to describe payments for a service-connected disability, and the term "pension" for a non-service-connected monetary benefit. Now the practice is to designate all such benefits as "pensions."

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q How much will the U. S. Coast Guard be cut in its demobilization plan?

A Within the next nine months it is expected that 137,500 officers and men will be released. About 35,000 men and officers will comprise its peacetime strength.

Q What is the origin of the word "Gestapo"?

A It is a shortened form of "Geheime Staatspolizei," which is translated Secret State Police.

Q Who was the sculptor of the statue of Freedom, that surmounts the dome of the Capitol in Washington, D. C.?

A It was modeled in Rome, Italy, by Thomas Crawford, father of Francis Marion Crawford the novelist. He sent a plaster model to the United States and the bronze statue was cast in the shop of Clark Mills, on Bladensburg Road, near Washington. It was placed on the dome December 2, 1863, and weighs 14,935 lbs. Crawford was paid $3,000 for the plaster model and the statue cost $20,796.82.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q What causes the hissing sound when a vacuum-sealed can is opened?

A With one exception, the hissing sound is caused by air rushing into the can. The exception is with vacuum-packed coffee. Sometimes the coffee generates gas after it has been packed and sealed, and when the can is opened the sound is caused by escaping gas.

Q Does human blood vary as to race or color of skin?

A No; there are four recognized types of blood, and they are found in all races.

Q What is the origin of the saying, "The Lord helps those who help themselves?"

A It is from Algernon Sidney's "Discourse Concerning Government," 17th century, but comes originally from Euripides' "Eumenides," "God helps him who strives hard."

rationing. Perhaps it cannot be justified.

If through meat rationing the postwar period of readjustment within England can be made less burdensome, it should be continued and observed. Americans have done as much without one binding political tie between this country and Britain.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Of all the millions who contributed to the defeat of Japan, none perhaps is more entitled to credit than the venerable statesman who yesterday celebrated his 78th birthday and his last week as Secretary of War. Perhaps even more than for his late chief, victory over Japan was a personal victory for Henry L. Stimson.

Pearson

He had begun fighting Japan as secretary of state under Hoover, 14 years ago this week. And he never stopped, not even when he was out of office—until now.

Even after he had stepped out of the state department following Roosevelt's inauguration in 1933, Stimson came down to see the new president of the United States about Japan.

He and Roosevelt at that time did not particularly like each other. They had been political enemies since 1910. That was the year which swept young Roosevelt into the New York Senate and Mr. Stimson into defeat as candidate for governor of New York.

Stimson, older than Roosevelt both in age and in manner, regarded him as an ostentatious young whippersnapper, didn't like the way he wore riding boots in the Albany legislature, considered him a poor imitation of his cousin Teddy, whom Stimson worshipped. "Charming, but without stamina," was the way Stimson described Roosevelt in those days.

Nevertheless, the ex-secretary of state swallowed his personal feelings and came down to see the new president of the United States in May 1933, on what he considered the most important international problem facing the country—Japan. He urged Roosevelt not to recognize Japan's conquest of Manchuria, which he, Stimson, had fought so bitterly.

Leaving the White House after the interview, Stimson's face glowed. A friend, who knew what his mission was, asked what the new president had said about recognizing Japan's puppet government in Manchuria.

"He said," he replied Stimson, "I won't even discuss it with the ———" And used the three-letter-word epithet which many others have applied to the Japanese since Pearl Harbor.

—STIMSON'S LONG FIGHT—

The story of Stimson's long battle to stop Japanese aggression in China has never been adequately told, and probably won't be unless he tells it himself. Unfortunately, Mr. Stimson is all too reticent.

But this columnist, who travelled with Mr. Stimson on some of his trips abroad remembers vividly how Stimson was one of the few who realized that the minor skirmish on the tracks of the South Manchurian railroad below Mukden, 14 years ago this week, actually was the beginning of Japan's well-laid plans for the conquest of Asia.

Many others at that time thought Stimson was wrong. Baron Shidehara, the Japanese foreign minister, emphatically told him so; and judging by the way the war lords kept Jap diplomats in the dark, Shidehara probably thought he was telling the truth. Some of Stimson's own state department advisers also told him so. So did the British foreign office; and so also did the French, with the exception of Aristide Briand.

Finally, even in his own cabinet, Herbert Hoover felt that Stimson was unduly alarmed about the Japs, while mid-western members of the Republican national committee nearly had conniption fits when Stimson ordered Prentiss Gilbert, U. S. Consul in Geneva, to sit as an observer with the League of Nations.

In fact, it was pressure from mid-west Republicans which forced Stimson to withdraw Gilbert from League sessions and replace him with that clowning diplomat, Charlie Dawes, whose safe and sane mid-west Republicanism appeased the isolationists but did not help stop Japan.

—ERA OF PEACE DIES—

An age was dying, an age of international optimism, goodwill pilgrimages, and Harding normalcy, the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson struggled almost alone to give it renewed life.

Leaving a sick-bed in the spring of 1932, he sailed for Paris, determined to warn the statesmen of Europe of impending disaster. Renting a Villa at Geneva, he called in Ramsay MacDonald, Chancellor Bruening, Dino Grandi, Andre Tardieu and pointed out that aggression in faraway China could be a greater threat to Europe than the menace of big guns in peace.

There came a time several years later when France was pushed out of Indo-China, when Britain called for American help at Hongkong, Singapore and India. But at Geneva in 1932, Mr. Stimson was branded as naive and idealistic. The leaders of Europe were "practical men."

Those were dark days in Stimson's Villa Besingne on Lake Geneva. His room looked out on an old garden sheltered by high trees, in which roosted flocks of birds. And sometimes when he could not sleep and work dragged endlessly, Stimson stood at his window looking out upon the trees and the moon and the shadows they cast upon the garden, and remembered the world war days when he was a Colonel of Artillery in France.

Out among the poplars, he saw again that line of men from the fields, the factories, the sea, going forward, and the line of women, wounded men, exhausted men, going back. A panorama of his life lay before him then, the latter years having been given to rebuilding equity and understanding among the peoples of the world.

There is strong sentiment in favor of bringing all our armed forces under one command—and the sooner that command is "go on home" the better the boys will like it.

We're now getting about the last of the corn-on-the-cob. That's tough!

BREACH IN PIER TO BE CLOSED

U. S. Engineers Order Construction Of Improvement

Approval by the United States Engineers office at Milwaukee of a short mound installation at the inner end of the east pier in the Manistique harbor has been approved, according to word received this week by E. M. Nissen, head engineer at the Milwaukee office. The construction calls for the use of 240 tons of stone to be placed at a point extending from the end of the concrete breakwater pier to and on the beach about 105 feet. About 80 per cent of the stone must be used in pieces weighing between 50 and 100 pounds each, the specifications submitted stated.

The Milwaukee office is calling for bids for furnishing the stone, transporting it to the site and constructing the mound.

Gardner Elected Commander Of Local DAV Post

Henry Gardner was elected commander of Manistique Post No. 26, of the Disabled American Veterans at a meeting of that organization held at the American Legion building Wednesday evening. Other officers, named at that time included Vernon Patz, service officer; John Larson, adjutant and treasurer; Clyde Wood, officer of the day; Milton Bunker, chaplain; and George Dupont, service officer.

Among the matters up for discussion at the meeting was comparison of the G. I. Bill of Rights and the Disabled American Veterans' bill. A general consensus of opinion declared the DAV bill to be far more adequate and lenient. Other matters were also taken up and discussed.

Six new members were added to the organization's roster, and indications are that many more will join in the very near future.

Installation of officers will be held at the next regular meeting, which will be Wednesday, October 17.

Crushed Stone-Not Gravel-Was Used On Inland Road

In a recent issue of the Press, in a news story about completion of a road between Gulliver and Port Inland, the term "gravel" was used in reference to the aggregate furnished by the Inland Lime and Stone company. This, it seems, was a technical error which the Press is glad to correct. Harold Rich, highway engineer in charge states that the aggregate furnished in both instances for the entire job was crushed stone. This graded material was properly proportioned of all sizes of stone from dust to 3/4 inch in size. The sharp angular shape of all particles regardless of size, produces a mechanical bond which reduces the tendency of wrinkling in the finished sheet even though a little surplus asphalt is used. The proper proportioning of sizes produces a denser product requiring less asphalt for binder.

The Road Commission considers this aggregate to be ideal for this class of work and extends its thanks to the Inland Lime and Stone company for their cooperation in producing such a road.

High Blood Pressure May Be Due To Lack Of Some Chemical

Dallas, Tex.—Patients with serious high blood pressure, known medically as essential hypertension, may in future be taking regular doses of a new medicine to keep the blood pressure at safe levels just as diabetics today take regular doses of insulin to stay healthy.

This blood-pressure-lowering chemical is not yet ready for general use, but steps leading to its development have been taken by Drs. Arthur Grollman and Tinsley R. Harrison of the Southwestern Medical College here.

The secretory substance, as Dr. Grollman terms it, was first discovered in the kidneys. Medical men long ago believed the kidneys played a part in the development of high blood pressure, but the idea that these organs which act primarily as filters and waste handlers produce a chemical essential for maintaining normal blood pressure is relatively new.

High blood pressure results, Dr. Grollman believes, when these organs are damaged so that they cannot produce this essential substance.

Dinner was served at 1 o'clock and cards followed for several hours. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Louise Gunville first; Mrs. Emma Bouty second and Mrs. Roy Harris low.

Misses Theresa Hupy and Beverly Fazer spent Tuesday afternoon with friends in LaBranche.

MANISTIQUE

Senator Urges Closer Working Ties Between Upper and Lower Mich.

"Would it not be a good thing to organize a committee from both peninsulas for the promotion of an automobile ferry from Northport to Manistique?"

The question is asked by James T. Milliken, of Traverse City, state senator from the twenty-seventh district in a letter to the Daily Press. The letter came in response to one sent recently by the local Daily Press manager asking information concerning the project.

In his answer, Senator Milliken says in part: "I have been interested for many years in an automobile ferry from Manistique to Northport. Such a ferry seemed to be so far in the future that I was unable to interest anyone in Traverse City. Gradually the need of better transportation facilities between the upper and lower peninsula has made this project more feasible."

Eskymos Will Meet Ironwood Here Today; Munising At Gladstone

TILT TOPS U. P. GRID SCHEDULE

Red Devils Are Rated As Outstanding; Kickoff At 2:00 p. m.

Escanaba and Ironwood high school football teams will clash at the Escanaba athletic field this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the first meeting between the teams of the two upper peninsula schools since 1910, when Escanaba won a 6 to 0 decision. The game is the highlight of the peninsula grid schedule today.

The Ironwood team comes to Escanaba with a reputation as the peninsula's outstanding grid aggregation, a rank earned as a result of two decisive and impressive victories over Calumet and Iron River. The Eskymos, on the other hand, played to a 13-13 tie in their only engagement thus far and they earned that tie last Saturday at Sault Ste. Marie only by a last minute 60 yard run on a short pass.

The Ironwood Red Devils are sparked by a flashy ball carrier in Mazurek, but the team boasts all around strength, an excellent passer in Stano, and the peninsula's top speed merchant in Olson at coach.

Starting Lineup
Coach George Ruwittch of the Eskymos, however, is convinced that his line will keep the Red Devils running attack well in check and that the Eskymos will display considerable offensive power in their own behalf, with Don Wickholm setting the pace for the Escanaba ball carriers.

Scheibner, regular quarterback, who sustained a bad ankle sprain at the Soo, is still out of action and will not be in uniform today. Gordon Schils, who had tentative position in the line, has been sidelined by bruised ribs. But the injury news is not all bad. Chapek, veteran guard, who was out of action for the Soo game, has returned to the lineup and will be on the field for the kickoff this afternoon.

The game probably will be witnessed by the largest crowd to attend a local grid battle since pre-war days. Principal E. E. Edick has announced that season ticket reservations, providing for the choicest seats in the bleachers, can be made by calling the high school office, 2122, this morning, or tickets can be purchased at the box office at the athletic field.

Officials for the game will be Al Treado, Rudness and Goldsworthy, all of Negaunee.

Twi-Night Feature Swept By Dodgers

Philadelphia, Sept. 21 (P)—The Brooklyn Dodgers strengthened their hold on third place in the National League by taking both ends of a two-night double-header tonight from the Philadelphia Phils, 1-0 and 11-5.

Shortstop Tom Brown had three triples. He hit the first in the last inning of the opener and scored on a squeeze play to give the Dodgers the winning run. In the nightcap he batted in three of the four Dodgers runs in the fifth and two of the three scored in the ninth.

Ralph Branca shut out the Phils in the opener, pitching three-hit ball until he was relieved in the ninth.

Golfers To Enjoy Stag Party Today

One of the most popular windup features of the Escanaba Golf club season, the annual stag party, will be staged today at the club. Golf will be played in the afternoon, starting at 1:30, and in the evening there will be a dinner, with cards and other entertainment.

NEGAUNEE WINS THIRD IN ROW

Manistique Defeated In Night Game By Score 27 To 7

Negaunee, Sept. 21—Negaunee chalked up its third successive victory here tonight, defeating Manistique, 27 to 7, in a night game played before a crowd estimated at 2,000 fans.

Jennings, Negaunee star, opened the scoring with a 28 yard touchdown run in the first period, but thereafter the Manistique line kept the hard driving Miner star well in check on line plays. They were less successful in checking Jennings' passes, however, and in the second period he threw a Herculean pass that travelled 60 yards in the air and accounted for the second Negaunee touchdown. The third touchdown for Negaunee, also scored in the second period, resulted from four yard line smash, after scoring position was gained on a pass. All three points after touchdown were added.

Negaunee scored its fourth and final touchdown in the third period on the one yard line after position had been gained on a series of nicely executed passes. The lone Manistique touchdown came in the third period, with Burns scoring from the 20 yard line on an off tackle play. Shaw made the extra point on a line plunge.

Title Hopes Spur Both Hoosiers And Wolverines Today

BY FRANK KENESSON
Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 21 (P)—Indiana and Michigan, both entertaining Big Ten title hopes, lift the lid here tomorrow on the 1945 Western Conference football chase with the Hoosiers hoping for a repetition of their 20 to 0 upset victory in 1944, one of the Wolverines' two defeats in 10 games.

Indiana, with 14 holdover lettermen, prepared to send out eight of the veterans in its starting lineup against a Michigan outfit comprised mostly of freshmen.

The green Wolverine machine was impressive, however, in handling Great Lakes a 27 to 2 licking a week ago and had a pair of new figures to throw against the Hoosiers in the Big Ten inaugural.

Bob Nussbaumer, Michigan's leading ball-carrier of 1944, was back after his discharge from the marines and freshman tackle Al Wahl was ready for service after a week's layoff with an ankle injury. Both are from Oak Park, Ill.

Coach H. O. (Fritz) Criesler of the Wolverines indicated that he would rely on the same opening lineup that scored on Great Lakes eight plays after the kickoff, righting Nussbaumer for relief duty at holding half.

Indiana's A. N. (Bo) McMillin named three freshmen, including left halfback George Taliaferro, negro flash from Gary, Ind., to the starting lineup for Indiana's first game of the season.

McMillin listed John Cannady, veteran 210-pound fullback from Owensboro, Ky., as a doubtful starter because of a leg injury. But the balance of the Hoosier squad was in top shape.

The Hoosiers were to spend tonight at Jackson, Mich., moving here shortly before the 2 p. m. (Eastern War time) kickoff. The Michigan ticket officials anticipated a crowd of 30,000 fans.

In a Roman house, the central room, or atrium, contained the hearth and a hole was cut in the roof to let out the smoke.

SUCCESSFUL DUCK HUNTERS—Among the few successful duck hunters at Portage Bay on opening day of the season were (left to right) H. C. Gerletti of 907 South Thirteenth street, Tom Banghart and Jack Adank of Chicago. While conditions made for poor shooting generally at the opening of the season Thursday, the three bagged 14 ducks—seven black mallard, three teal, three widgones and one woodcock. Wood ducks are particularly scarce, and the bag limit is one per season. The two Chicago men have come to Escanaba each duck season for several years to join Gerletti in hunting in the marshes along the shore at Portage Bay where the picture was taken. Shooting yesterday morning continued poor, and there were few hunters compared with the morning the season opened.

DUCK HUNTERS LACK SUCCESS

Fair Weather, Too Many Coots, Make Shooting Below Average

Escanaba duck hunters are playing a waiting game—waiting for bad weather which is "good" for larger flights of migrating mallards—after a season opening that was less successful than the average for past years.

Fair weather was said by hunters to be largely responsible for the poor showing, although there were a few mallards, teal, widgones and other wildfowl taken in the early morning hours Thursday and Friday.

Scores of hunters' cars were parked along the Bay Shore Road from South Park to Portage Creek in the early morning hours before the season opened officially at 6:07 a. m. Thursday. Even later in the day many hunters stayed in the blinds along the bay shore, hoping for a shot at something besides a coot.

Incidentally, the number of coot seemed remarkably large and many hunters were bringing them down for practice. The coot generally is ignored by the duck hunter as somewhat on the ineffectible side. The heavy flights of coot, together with the more plentiful supply of postwar ammunition, were an invitation to shooting which most of the hunters could not resist.

Just how good the later weeks will be is problematical. Michigan wildfowl were not happy about the 1944 open season, which had been heralded as promising better sport than had been enjoyed in many years. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service had estimated the migratory waterfowl population at 135,500,000 in 1944; says it is probably 20,000,000 less this season.

The 1944 season was disappointing at least in Michigan. Lying between two flyways—the Atlantic and the Mississippi—Michigan did not attract greatly increased numbers of waterfowl. Department game men have a theory that when seasons are dry in western states, more ducks and geese fly south through Michigan. Last season was wetter than usual over much of the United States; a like condition exists this year.

Consequently, many southward-flying flocks may not come near Michigan's great expanses of water. Sportsmen complained also last season that duck rafting too far from shore to afford shooting.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Escanaba-Ironwood football clash this afternoon at the Escanaba athletic field highlights the week's jousts in the traditional, although mythical, upper peninsula football derby. Many of the teams still unbeaten in the race for the title have comparatively easy assignments this week and are expected to climb another rung on the ladder of fleeting fame. Iron Mountain has a breather in Niagara and, regardless, the outcome has no bearing on the peninsula championship.

One team that dropped out of football competition during the war years is returning to action today. That is Wakefield, playing a veteran aggregation at L'Anse. The return of Wakefield to grid competition leaves only Crystal Falls still inactive from the list of wartime football casualties in the peninsula. Coach Cappy Keil is mourning about football prospects at Gladstone this fall but the Braves always field an alert team and rate the favorite role in their battle today with the resurging Munising eleven.

If any further evidence is needed regarding the caliber of the Ironwood Red Devils, playing the Eskymos here today, here it is from Leonard (Gump) Olson, well-known former Escanaba, now residing at Houghton. Gump, who saw the Red Devils trample over Calumet, writes: "Let me tell you that Ironwood certainly has a big team and plenty tough. They are four deep in each position. Their passing attack is very good and combined with a good running attack. The game with Escanaba should be a homey, and the Eskymos will have to be on the beam to beat them." Amen.

Teams making their entry into the 1945 U. P. derby today are Wakefield, Kingsford and Gladstone. Two other teams, St. Joseph of Escanaba and Menominee, are scheduled to meet today.

Not attract greatly increased numbers of waterfowl. Department game men have a theory that when seasons are dry in western states, more ducks and geese fly south through Michigan. Last season was wetter than usual over much of the United States; a like condition exists this year.

Consequently, many southward-flying flocks may not come near Michigan's great expanses of water. Sportsmen complained also last season that duck rafting too far from shore to afford shooting.

George Binks led off the second with a two-bagger to the left-field corner that handcuffed Charley Keller and was singled home by Rick Ferrell. Sliced-hitter Mike Kreevich then pinch-hit the second pinch into right for a single moving Ferrell to third.

George Myatt topped a roller to short that skidded along too slowly for Frankie Crossetti to field, and when he beat it out for a hit, Ferrell plodded home. In the third, Binks again began the parade, singling to left with two away. Ferrell ripped a hit off Zuber's glove and Gilberto Torres sent a blooper into left to bring the last Washington run in.

With these seven safeties, Washington went on to easily outthit the Yanks, collecting 12 to the 8 the New Yorkers gathered off a trio of elbows.

YANKEES TRIP SENATORS, 5-3

Homers Help Sink Nats Another Half Game Below Bengals

BY SID FEDER
New York, Sept. 21 (P)—Washington's wallowing Senators were all but "home-runned" out of the American league pennant race today.

The New York Yankees, who practically roll over and play dead when-ever they see the League-leading Detroit Tigers, cashed in on the old lethal weapon of their heyday, the round-trip wallop, to knock off their Washington "cousins" 5 to 3 and sink the Senators a game-and-a-half behind the Bengals.

Now down three games on the crucial losing side of the ledger, the Senators skidded to a spot where any combination of four Detroit wins and-or Washington defeats will mathematically nail the pennant to the Tigers' flagpole.

Ball Hits Clift
Homers by Nick Etten and Snuffy Stirnweiss produced four of the Yankees' runs today—the fifth was knocked in on a single by Etten—while the Senators showed so complete a fatality at the plate that even Bill Zuber was able to beat them for his first victory in six starts.

And they not only blew the ball game, leaving an even dozen runners stranded, but they also left for Philadelphia without third baseman Harland Clift, who probably is through for the season. The veteran hot-corner custodian was hit by a ball pitched by Walter Holbrook, during pregame batting practice and suffered a concussion. Carried to a hospital where it was reported he would remain until Sunday when he will probably return to Washington.

George Binks led off the second with a two-bagger to the left-field corner that handcuffed Charley Keller and was singled home by Rick Ferrell. Sliced-hitter Mike Kreevich then pinch-hit the second pinch into right for a single moving Ferrell to third.

George Myatt topped a roller to short that skidded along too slowly for Frankie Crossetti to field, and when he beat it out for a hit, Ferrell plodded home. DETROIT NEEDS VICTORY TODAY

Four Wins Would Cinch Title; Greenberg Still Hobbles

Detroit, Sept. 21 (P)—The Detroit Tigers, devoting an off day to a two-hour batting practice before opening a two-game series in Briggs Stadium Saturday against the St. Louis Browns, got some timely help from the New York Yankees today as second place Washington lost a 5 to 3 decision in New York, dropping a game and a half back of the league-leading Bengals.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers nominated lefthander Hal Newhouser to hurl Saturday's single game against the Browns and said Dizzy Trout would work for Detroit Sunday.

Arriving at their home lot, where they play four of their remaining six games of the regular campaign, the Tigers worked hard today in a hot sun with Jim Tobin, Joe Orrell, Bill Pierce and newcomer Bob Gillespie from Buffalo pitching batting practice.

The Tigers' two crippled regulars, left fielder Hank Greenberg and second baseman Eddie Mayro, engaged in the drill and were expected to be in the lineup against the Browns.

Mayro said his lame shoulder and Greenberg continued to hobble on a sprained ankle.

Detroit could clinch the pennant by sweeping the next four of its six remaining games, even if Washington should take all of its remaining three games with Philadelphia.

The Tigers play St. Louis Saturday and Sunday and Cleveland Tuesday and Wednesday before moving to St. Louis for their final two-game set of the season.

play wiped him out. Torres drew a walk to start the eighth and was forced. And Travis was stranded in the ninth after singling.

Meantime, the Yanks put money in the bank almost as soon as the cashier's window was opened. Johnny Niggeling started and it was obvious, as he walked both ways, that he was even more obvious a moment later, when Etten "picked" a 2-1 pickled walk up into the right field stands for his 17th homer of the year.

Niggeling was hoisted at the end of the first and Walt Masterston, who came out of the Navy to whip Bobby Feller in his only victory this season, ambled in.

Opening the third, Stirnweiss clouted a pitch that barely landed into the right field stands for his tenth homer of the year.

That was enough to put the thing on the ice, but in the seventh, with two out and Stirnweiss on second after having singled, Washington walked Keller intentionally and Etten scrambled the strategy by singling in an unnecessary manner.

BRAVES OPEN 1945 SEASON

Keilmen Lack Experience But Team Possesses Possibilities

Gladstone, Mich. — Gladstone high school's football eleven plays its opening game of the '45 season here this afternoon at Marble Athletic Field with Munising furnishing the opposition.

While it is still too early to determine the quality of the Braves, Coach Eldon Keil expects his charges will give the Alger county eleven a good game.

The team is average in height and weight, is as fast as last year's squad and the team's passing and punting is as good as normally. Inexperience unquestionably will handicap the Braves to some extent but the team is young and should show improvement from week to week.

Munising has the advantage of having played two games already, although they lost both of them by narrow margins to Newberry and Marquette.

Officiating will be Cummings, Berry and Chambers.

TROJANS LOSE TO PESHTIGO

St. Joseph Drops Tough Battle In Opener, 14 To 7

Peshtigo, Sept. 21 — The St. Joseph Trojans football team lost a hard fought battle to Peshtigo here tonight, 14 to 7, in the opening game of the season, but the Trojans put up a tough scrap all the way.

Led by Steffen, a hard driving halfback, Peshtigo scored the first touchdown in the opening period, Steffen crossing the goal line on a quick opening play. He also added the extra point.

In the second period, Ramspeck evened the count for the Trojans, sprinting 65 yards on an end run to score the St. Joseph touchdown and a pass from McCarthy added the extra point.

With Steffen again sparking the Peshtigo attack, the Wisconsin team moved out in front once more in the second period, Steffen ran 40 yards to score this touchdown and he also added the extra point.

That concluded the scoring for the evening, as the entire second half was played without another touchdown. St. Joseph, however, made a desperate bid to even the count in the closing period but lost the ball on downs on the 10 yard stripe after a drive from their own 40 yard line.

The Trojans looked very good for the opening game of the season, Bob Lewis, McGuigan and R. McMartin suffered minor injuries in the game but all are expected to be back in shape before the next game. The Trojans are idle next weekend.

TRIESTE VITAL RAIL TERMINAL

Adriatic Port Natural
Outlet For Shipping
On Mediterranean

Washington — Italy entered World War I at least partly to gain control over the internationally important port of Trieste on the Adriatic, together with the Brenner Pass, strategic overland route over the Alps to Austria and the north. Also, Italy demanded a clear title to the Dodecanese islands, which she took from Turkey in 1912. These three territorial and strategic gains were agreed to by England and France in the so-called secret Treaty of London in 1915. Because of their international importance, Italy may now lose control of all three.

Trieste is the natural outlet to the Mediterranean for the heavy products of all central Europe, its excellent harbor makes it a great port. Railroads from northern Italy, the Balkans, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Germany terminate at the port. These countries have a positive interest in it.

Brenner Pass is of less international interest because less important as a commercial route, but it is an important trade exchange road between Italy and countries to the north. Italy's interest, however, is principally strategic.

Yugoslavia's interest in Trieste is much the same as that of Italy. From the standpoint of its commercial shipping needs the port of Fiume would probably serve. From a naval standpoint the excellent base at Pola would be sufficient. Both of these ports are in Venezia Giulia, the territory in the Trieste region that Yugoslavia wants and may finally get—without or without the port of Trieste or without complete control of the port.

Sightseers Of 6th Toured The Pacific

In World War I the Sixth Infantry Division was in so many engagements and made so many long marches about France that it was given the nickname "The Sight-Seeing Sixth."

The Sixth in this war upheld that reputation. Its six-pointed star shoulder patch was seen throughout the Pacific from Hawaii to the far reaches of New Guinea.

The Sight-Seeers had one of the toughest assignments in recapture of Luzon. They landed at Lingayen Gulf Jan. 9, 1945 and went straight to the hills in pursuit of the Japs. While most of the other invading divisions were working on fairly flat terrain, the Sixth was in the mountains attacking formidable Nip positions. In the first month of the campaign, the Sixth killed 5000 Japs, and during the fierce battle around Munoz knocked out 57 Jap medium and light tanks and destroyed a great number of artillery pieces.

The Sixth's first job was the defense of Oahu. In 1944 it set sail for Milne Bay, New Guinea, and later moved to the Toem-Wadke area. In July the Sight-Seeers went into action west of Toem and met and defeated the Japs in the bloody battle of Lone Tree Hill. With little rest, the men landed at Sansapor on the Vogelkop Peninsula in the Netherlands East Indies. Striking swiftly, they rapidly secured the Sansapor coast and garrisoned this area until it joined the armada that sailed against Luzon.

Plan Expedition To South Africa

New York—An expedition to Nyasaland, South Africa, is planned by the American Museum of Natural History for next April. The museum's first large-scale expedition abroad since 1941 will be led by Arthur S. Verna, trustee of the museum, who has sponsored numerous expeditions to remote parts of the world for the past 25 years to collect material for exhibition and research.

Southern Nyasaland is one of the few remaining parts of Africa that has not been thoroughly studied by scientists. Mount Manje, in the wild and mountainous country south of Lake Nyasa, is a point of special interest. Specimens of both mammal and plant life will be collected.

Mr. Verna will be accompanied by Dr. Harold E. Anthony, chairman and curator of the department of mammals; Leonard Brass, botanist; and Capt. Guy Shortridge, director of the Kaffrarian Museum of King William's Town, South Africa.

YOUNG HENRY IS NAMED TOP FORD CO. BOSS

Lindbergh. In one of his first public addresses as executive vice president of the Ford company, the youthful Henry Ford told automobile dealers:

"It seems to me that the job of the automobile industry after the war is not only to build a worthwhile product, but, also, to provide its employees with a secure existence and to educate them to further progress."

Knows Labor Problems
Young Ford's close associates credit him with a broad knowledge of the history, background and aspirations of organized labor and add that he regards money as only a basic essential of industrial production and human welfare.

In recent interview he said: "No wage is too high—$50 a day isn't too high—as long as it is earned, but $1 a day is too high if it isn't earned."

The elder Ford said he planned to remain on the Ford board of directors "and to assist in an advisory way." The "other personal interests" he referred to presumably have to do with further developing the product of the soil for use in industry—an all-time life-time obsession with Ford.

The 82-year-old Ford had appeared little in public during the last year, but at his offices it was said his health was "all right" and was not a factor in his decision to again relinquish the company presidency.
